PROCLAMATION

WHEREAS, it is desirable that each and every one of us become better acquainted with our state and thereby increase our knowledge and renew our faith and confidence, and

WHEREAS, South Dakota has much to offer to him who wishes to explore, discover or find recreation. As a state we are still young. The furrows traced by the pioneers can still be seen, and the efforts made by those foresighted and God-fearing people to bring culture and comfort to a new land are still visible. Churches, schools, industries and productive farms have been built on the foundations which they so intelligently and carefully laid. Nature gave us a diversity of resources and provided us with varied topography of prairies, plains and mountains, of lakes and streams, of open and wooded lands. Each region is different from all the others and has given our state a reputation of being truly "the land of infinite variety." And

WHEREAS, it is wholesome and educational to take a vacation away from every day duties and renew acquaintances and make new ones in different communities, to follow the paths of the millions of visitors who have come to our state:

NOW, THEREFORE, I Sigurd Anderson, Governor of the State of South Dakota, do hereby proclaim the week of September 14, 1962, as

and earnestly urge that we set aside a day or more and refresh our appreciation of South Dakota.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of South Dakota to be affixed this 4th day of September, 1962.
